No. 26, South Second Street,
SAINT LOUIS, - - - MISSOURI

This great Tonic has been introduced to the people of the Mississippi Valley for the past thirteen years with unbounded success and popularity.
There is nothing of the kind extant that equals it as a stimulant, an appetizer, or antidiabetic. It is particularly adapted to malarious districts and as a Preventative of Chills, is not surpassed.
It is endorsed by the best chemists as the most efficacious, strengthening Tonic this country has ever produced, the value of which will be recognized by all who may use them.
Private citizens of Arizona visiting St. Louis have expressed their convictions that it is particularly adapted to the wants of that Territory, and needs only a trial to insure its speedy introduction there.
Orders addressed to THE WEST INDIA MANUFACTURING COMPANY will be promptly executed. dec 13-14

I will pay $100 Reward for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons unlawfully handling cattle or horses in the above brands. The marks—both ears split, horses branded on left thigh with the same iron.

Silver King Mining Company.

Through the courtesy of Mr. H. H. Noble, president of this company, we are enabled to state from such an official source, First: It is the intention of the present management to give the stockholders all the information about the company's mine and financial condition, be it good or bad. Second: To carry on the work of prospecting the mine with most rigid economy consistent with the requirements of the property. Already, the official expenses have been reduced from $900 per month to $350, and whenever practicable, the same policy will be pursued with respect to mine and mills. The company were in debt $11,270 on the 1st of January, 1890, as shown by the secretary's statement, which necessitated the assessment of thirty cents a share. President Noble adds: "Yet, we who are large stockholders believe we have a valuable property and that it can again be put on a dividend paying basis." Financial and Mining Record.

The Lead Ore Tariff.

A Washington, D. C., dispatch of February 19th says: The Ways and Means Committee has completed the metal schedule of the tariff bill, although it may be subjected to one or two changes before the measure is finally reported. It is understood the schedule has been amended so as to impose a duty of 1½ a pound on all lead combined with gold or silver ore. This, it is claimed, is in deference to the demand of the large lead interest in the new States and Missouri, Colorado and Nevada, and is intended to shut out the Mexican ores. Secretary Windom, it is said, would have ruled just as the committee now proposes and was so expected to rule, but at the last moment decided that he was not at liberty to reopen the repeated decisions of his predecessors. He, however, adhered to certain administrative regulations framed by himself, which made the introduction of Mexican ores as onerous as the levying of duty would have done.

Time-Settling Club.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)
"I have received several letters of late asking me why so few of the club people had been taken down with the grip," said Brother Gardner as Paradise Hall grew quiet. "I lay it to the grip of character alone. No black man of any account is going to fool around in a loose time and pay doctor bills and anything less than small-pox. Such ailments as grip are too trifling for him to bother with. They belong to women and men of weak minds. Any member of this club guilty of harboring such a complaint would have to stand up head and make a mighty reasonable explanation or pay a fine of not less than $10,000. Let us now proceed to business."

Sir Isaac Walpole arose to a question of privilege. He had heard and read a great deal about the race problem during the last year, and he believed the time had now come for the club to take official action. He had studied the subject from every standpoint, seeking to arrive only at fair and honest conclusions, and his mind was made up with a view of doing justice to all men. He would, therefore, introduce the following resolution:

Whereas, As discentry don't seem big 'nuff to hold back races; and, Whereas, As it becomes plainer every day that the gulf between 'em is growin' broader an' deeper; and,

Whereas, As we recognize de fact dat white people hev sarlin' inalienable rights, as well as col'd folks, an' bein' guided by a sense of justice an' a desire to do what is best under de circumstances; now darfore

Resolved, Dat Congress be petitioned to appropriate de sum of $5,000, 000 wid which to remove de white population of dis kentry to Norway an' settle each head of family on a twenty-acre tract of land."

The resolution was received with long-continued applause, and Given-dam Jones, Elder Toots, Waydown Bobbe, Seekno-further Smith and others spoke warmly in its favor. On motion of Assumpta Green it was resolved that the above resolution expresses the feelings of the Lime-Kiln Club, and that it at once take an active and leading part in the movement to bring about the scheme proposed. When this resolution had been unanimously adopted, Brother Gardner said: "My friends, dis race question problem has bothered me till I can't sleep. I believe dis am de true way out of it, an' I shall do everything dat personally lies in my power to bring about dis colonization scheme. We must give de white folks a fair show, however. They can't be expected to pick up an' dig out at de blowin' of de horn. It may take five yars befo' we see de last one go, but we kin wait."

Type Setting by Machinery.

The substitution of mechanism for hand labor in the setting of types, although long delayed, may be now considered as realized, says the Scientific American, and the day cannot be far distant when the type-setting machine will be the principal reliance in all properly organized printing establishments. In this city the New York Tribune is almost wholly set up by the type machine. In Hartford, Conn., another form of machine, which proves very valuable and effective, has for some time been at work, and is thus described in the Hartford Post:

It may be of interest to readers of the Post, as it certainly will be to contemporary publishers, to read a brief and not too technical description of the workings of the type-setting machines, as used in the daily production of this paper. The machines are started at 7:30 o'clock every morning, a small electric motor furnishing the slight power needed. Each machine has a keyboard, similar to that of an ordinary typewriter, and as each keyboard sits a young lady operator. Before her is spread the copy which she is to put in type, and her nimble fingers pass with such rapidity over the keys that she is able to set as much type on the machine in a given time as three or four compositors would in the same time set by hand. Her "case" is always full, for the machine automatically keeps itself constantly supplied with type, and thus no time is lost in "distributing." Should it be necessary to change copy at any moment, or any number of times, it can be done in an instant; and the interruption of rushing in an item at the last moment, when a machine happens to be otherwise employed, causes not the slightest inconvenience or delay. With ordinary care few or no errors are made. The machine itself cannot make a mistake, and all errors that occur are the result of insufficient attention or undue haste on the part of the person operating it. Every letter is deftly directed to its proper position by the ingenious little "picker," with as much delicacy and positiveness as if it possessed intelligence, and with such apparent daintiness of touch as to render injury to the types almost beyond possibility.

Bogus Coffee.

(New York World.)
Ninety-six million pounds of bogus coffee are sold in the United States every year, and some estimates place it at 120,000,000 pounds. Taking the lowest figures, $25,000,000 are received for substances which can be profitably placed on the market at 6 cents a pound. The manufacturers, therefore, receive $6,000,000 for their goods, while retailers gain a profit of $19,000,000. There are two kinds of bogus coffee, an imitation bean and ground article. The bean is the most difficult to produce, and it is only recently that actual success in this direction has been attained. Bogus coffee beans have only a slight resemblance to the natural berry, for though they possess proper form the cicatrice on the inner face is too smooth. Then again the gray color of the raw bean is not quite up to the mark, but when these manufactured beans are roasted with 5 per cent. of genuine coffee they find a ready sale. These bogus beans can be made at a cost of $30 per 1,000 pounds, and when mixed with 50 pounds of pure coffee the whole 1,050 pounds cost $37.50, or 3½ cents per pound, so that a profit of nearly 100 per cent. is the result. There are any number of "coffee substitutes," the Hillis variety being the most successful. This company is already manufacturing 10,000 pounds per week, it being sold by the barrel to retailers in nearly all of the New England, Middle and Western States. The profits of this concern are supposed to be $300 per day and its operations have reached such a scale that the stockholders were recently offered nearly $1,000,000 for their secret and business, but it was declined. No one accustomed to drinking good coffee would imagine that a decoction of this stuff was like either Mocha or Rio, but when mixed with four times its bulk of genuine ground coffee only an expert could detect the imposition.

The ministers of Xenia, Ohio, have issued an address to their people, urging them to cease desecrating "the Sabbath" by refraining from burying the dead on that day, going to the post-office, reading secular papers, compelling servants to do household work, and traveling on Sunday, especially by railroad. This is all right; if the ministers of Xenia believe that Sunday should be so strictly observed it is perfectly right for them to persuade their people, or any other people, to keep it; but there the matter should end; they have no right to coerce people in such matters.—American Sentinel.

Considerable speculation has heretofore attended the precise location of the soul, but, according to the Electrical World, the mystery is now solved. Dr. A. H. Stevens, of Philadelphia, has located it in the corpus callosum, a little spongy body situated at the base of the brain, which has defied the efforts of physicians in their endeavors to ascertain its uses in the human anatomy. "The corpus callosum," says the doctor, "is the seat of the imperishable mind, and is the great reservoir and storehouse of electricity, which is abstracted from the blood in the arteries, and conveyed through the nerves up the spinal cord to the corpus callosum."

The office seeking section of the Republican party in New Mexico owes it to its own ravenous and selfish greed that the new chief justice comes from outside the Territory. The President waited patiently for months to see if he could find a citizen of New Mexico upon whom the party could unite as a proper man for the place, but he waited in vain. Every aspirant was more or less besmirched by his affectionate rivals almost as soon as his name reached the White House, and Mr. Harrison apparently reached the conclusion that there wasn't a New Mexican intellectually fit for the place whose moral character was above suspicion.—Las Vegas Optic.

It will not be long before all the waste water-power in the land will be converted into electrical energy, and conveyed anywhere to a point of from ten to one hundred miles on a small copper wire, in armaments of from ten to five hundred horse-power. The cost of construction per mile would not exceed $3,000. Long distance distribution has already been practically successful in the Western States, but more particularly in Switzerland.—Inventive Age.
